PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT
 Los Angeles, California • October 1948

As you walk down the fairway of life, you must smell the roses, for you only get to play one round. —Ben Hogan

As his wife Valerie knits in an armchair across the room, golf legend Ben Hogan practices his put in a room at the Town House hotel. Known as "Bastore Ben" and "The Hawk," Hogan is recognized as the greatest golfer of his era—renowned for his disciplined swing and ball-striking ability. His dedication to the game goes back to the age of 11, when he walked seven miles from his home to the Glen Garden Country Club in Fort Worth, Texas, to find work as a caddy. In an extraordinary professional career that ran from 1930 until 1971, during which he served in WWII as a lieutenant in the Army Air Corps, Hogan compiled 64 victories on the PGA Tour. After surviving a near-fatal auto accident in 1949, during which he threw himself across the front seat of the car to protect his wife, Hogan went on to win three of his four U.S. Open titles. Ben and Valerie Hogan were happily married for 62 years.
